

VONDER HORST BROTHERS SUED

Rio Grande Lumber Company
Claims Lien on McIntyre
Building.

Two suits were filed Monday in the district court against Vonder Horst Bros., the San Francisco contracting firm which defaulted on the contract to build the Jefferson school. Both suits are by the Rio Grande Lumber company.

The first also mentions as defendants the McCormick Building company, the Salt Lake Hardware company and E. R. Watson, doing business as the J. C. Watson Transfer company, and is for $445 with $24.90 costs.

The other has joined as defendants Watson, the Salt Lake Hardware company and W. H. McIntyre, part owner of the McIntyre-McCormick building.

Mechanics' liens are claimed against the McIntyre building for the reinforced concrete construction, of which Vonder Horst Bros. held the contract.

PITTS SAYS WIFE LEFT AFTER STORMY SCENE

Divorce Applicant Avers Spouse
Broke Furniture and Took Silverware.

Mrs. Lizzie Pitts left her husband, Harry B. Pitts, on August 5 last, and, according to his story in his divorce complaint filed yesterday, her exit was dramatic. She not only told him what she thought of him in real language but off the reel, calling him vile names and abusing him generally for several generations of his family back, but she also generally broke up housekeeping, destroying furniture and making the place look like a cyclone.

He says she tore his mother's picture from the wall and destroyed it, after which she attacked other pictures, and getting other members of her family to help her, gathered up the silverware and what else they could carry and departed. His private papers, he avers, she tore into small pieces and scattered over the floor. What she could not tear up she poured ink over and damaged, telling him, he alleges, to go to a sultry clime. Later, with a sister, she came back and carted away other articles of furniture, at the same time throwing ink over the rugs.

He asks that he be given an absolute divorce and that she be ordered to return his property. The couple were married at Salt Lake November 12 last.

Our Tribute to G. A. R. Men Convened This Week in National Encampment

AND WE SALUTE YOU, TOO

Not only salute you, but we go further: our earnest aim is to make you feel the impress of the city's welcome—Utah's welcome, if you please—for the whole state is your host.

Back of these flags and decorations and music and entertainment is a full appreciation of your struggles and privations, and a deep reverence for your achievements.

You saved our country!

The plaudits of a nation are prone to ring in the ears of those who were fortunate in being officers, but to the rank and file—the matchless young men of long ago, those scarred old veterans of today—the emoluments of war become a crown rightfully yours to wear—emoluments worthy the hero! Your deeds are praised, your presence will be cheered in line of march. Individually how little has been your reward! Among us this week are unknown heroes; men who knew no fear, who stormed the heights, who suffered the torments of Andersonville—how little has been your reward!

But on the occasion of this memorable gathering, lack of individual recognition is forgotten. You meet to mingle with your kind who know sympathy, whose handshake springs from the heart. Brave old men! Mingle one with the other; recount your experiences, renew old friendships.

We of a younger generation can only look upon you in awe—because of you we enjoy the benefits accruing from a United Nation—to us it is only history. We cannot feel the thrill which possesses you as the martial music breaks forth, and the old army songs lift you to your feet.

But were another crisis imminent, millions of young men, inspired by your loyalty and bravery, would rush to arms.

For we, like you, are Americans!

Though entertainments are being crowded upon you during your leisure, an hour may be instructively and pleasantly spent inspecting the finest store in the intermountain West, where every courtesy will be extended the men who wear the little bronze button.

This store will close between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Wednesday
